I. Provenance

The Estate of Joseph Wortis, M.D. gave the personal papers of Joseph Wortis, M.D. which comprise the Joseph Wortis Collection, to the Oskar Diethelm Library in 1995.

Henry Havelock Wortis, M.D., Joseph Wortis' son and the Executor of the Estate, signed the Deed of Gift in 1996.

II. Biographical Sketch - Dr. Joseph Wortis (1906-1995)

Joseph Wortis was born in Brooklyn, New York on October 2, 1906, one of five children of a Russian watchmaker and a French Alsatian mother. He attended New York University, where he majored in English literature before switching to a pre-medical course, and graduated in 1927.¹ Soon after graduation, Wortis travelled to Europe. Instead of returning to the United States to attend Yale University Medical School in the Fall, he spent the next five years studying medicine at the University of Vienna, Medical Faculty (1927-1932), and in Munich and Paris.

Upon returning to the United States, Wortis became a resident in Psychiatry at Bellevue Hospital, where he remained for less than a year. Havelock Ellis, the famous writer and sexologist whom he had met while on summer vacation in England in 1927, wrote asking if Wortis would accept a generous fellowship to return to Europe to study problems in the area of homosexuality.² Wortis accepted. Mrs. A. Kingsley Porter funded the fellowship. Broad in its mandate, the fellowship allowed Wortis to first develop his skills and training in psychiatry, with the expectation that he would later turn his attention to sex research.³

Ellis and Adolph Meyer, then Chief of Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University, became joint sponsors of the fellowship, which Wortis received from 1933 to 1940.⁴ The fellowship took Wortis through his studies in England and Vienna, through his residencies at New York University Medical College (1934-1938) and his teaching assistantship in Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins Medical School

¹ New York University course transcripts are located in Series 6: Other Biographical Materials. College papers and essays are located in Series 1: Writings - Personal.

² Series 1: Correspondence - Individuals contains more than thirty letters between Ellis and Wortis. At Wortis's request, Ellis returned the letters Wortis had written him. Also in this series are letters from Ellis's secretary and companion, Françoise Delisle (sometimes known as Françoise Lafitte-Cyon or Madam Cyon), and Ellis's adopted son, Professor François Lafitte.

³ Letters between Wortis and Mrs. Porter are located in Series 1: Correspondence - Individuals. These files also contain reports Wortis composed for Mrs. Kingsley describing his scholarly progress under her sponsorship.

⁴ Correspondence from Dr. Adolph Meyer is located in Series 1: Correspondence - Individuals.

(1938-1939).⁵

In 1934, Wortis married Helen Zunser, with whom he had been intermittently involved since his New York University days, and who was the daughter of a prominent Jewish literary family.⁶ That same year, Wortis began his fellowship by returning to Vienna to undergo didactic psychoanalysis under Dr. Sigmund Freud.⁷

Freud analyzed Wortis over a period of four months (October 1933-January 1934), which Wortis later described in Fragments of an Analysis with Freud.⁸ During the same year in Vienna, Wortis met Dr. Manfred Sakel and observed his new insulin shock treatment for schizophrenia. Wortis introduced the insulin treatment when he returned to America in 1935. Later he translated Dr. Sakel's German monograph on the treatment and helped bring Dr. Sakel to America.⁹

For several years thereafter, Wortis served as Research Fellow and later managed the treatment ward and research laboratory on brain metabolism at Bellevue Psychiatric Hospital, where he remained Clinical Professor of Psychiatry until 1953¹⁰. From 1941 to 1943, Wortis worked at Columbia University as a Research Associate in Physiology and as a Physiological Investigator at the Aviation Research Laboratory. During World War II, he served as Chief Psychiatrist (Lieutenant Commander) at the New York Port Office of the War Shipping Administration (United States Public Health Service) and as a neuropsychiatrist at Ellis Island Marine ⁵ In England Wortis was at Maudsley and Queens Square Hospitals, London, and in Vienna at Neurologic Institute under Otto Marburg.

⁶ The collection contains correspondence from the friends, family and lovers of Helen (Zunser) Wortis, from 1920 to 1950, located in Series 1: Helen (Zunser) Wortis Correspondence. Helen Zunser should not be confused with Joseph Wortis' sister Helen (Wortis) Robinson.

⁸ Fragments of an Analysis with Freud is available from the Curator of the Library for use in the Library.

⁹ For correspondence from Dr. Sakel, see See Series 1: Correspondence - Individuals.

Hospital (1943-1945).

From the mid 1930s to the mid 1950s, Wortis became known for his physiological approaches to psychiatry. With a knowledge of six foreign languages, for many years he wrote an annual review of world literature describing physiological methods of treatment for the American Journal of Psychiatry. As a Socialist and Marxist, Wortis gave popular evening courses at the worker's Jefferson School in Manhattan (ca. 1942-1947)¹¹ at the same time he lead a small group of psychiatrists in founding the Benjamin Rush Society. At the close of World War II, Wortis became active in the newly formed American-Soviet Medical Society. Stuart Mudd, the Society's president, induced Wortis to prepare a comprehensive volume on Soviet psychiatry.¹² His Soviet Psychiatry (1950) was a digest of Soviet psychiatric literature because the political climate at that time did not allow for visits to the Soviet Union.¹³ From 1946 until 1952, Wortis served as Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Insulin Treatment Unit at New York University.

In 1953, at the height of the McCarthy era, Senator Jenner's Congressional investigative committee summoned Wortis. The committee was set up ostensibly to investigate "Subversive Influence in the Educational Process." Repeatedly asked if he was a member of the Communist Party, Wortis defied the committee by refusing to answer any questions.¹⁴ However, the political harassment Wortis received both preceding and following the hearings, in his view, made it impossible for him to achieve high academic rank or to attract support for his hospital work or research.¹⁵ During this time, Wortis entered the field of mental retardation. He worked at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital, where he served as Director of the Division of Pediatric Psychiatry from ¹¹ Wortis's lectures at the Jefferson School were recorded on soundscriber disks (5 and 7 inches in diameter). The disks are in Series 8: Audio-Visual Materials. No other Jefferson School materials were located.

¹² Correspondence between Wortis and Mudd is located in Series 1: Correspondence.

¹³ Available from the Curator of the Library for use in the Library.

¹⁴ The text of Wortis' testimony is located in Series 6: Other Biographical Materials.

1950 until 1967.¹⁶

After a change of political climate in the late 1950's, Wortis began again to receive financial support. In particular, a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health (1958-1964) for the translation of Russian psychiatric literature, allowed him to travel to the Soviet Union (ca. 1958-1959). During this period, Wortis rose to prominence in the field of mental health.

From 1960 until 1973, Wortis served as Professor of Psychiatry at SUNY Downstate Medical Center (Maimonides) and from 1973 through the 1980s, he served in a variety of research and teaching programs involving special education at SUNY Stony Brook. He also edited the Society of Biological Psychiatry's journal Biological Psychiatry from 1959 through 1992.¹⁷

III. Scope and Content

Materials in the Joseph Wortis Collection date from 1920 to the year of his death in 1995, and comprise approximately 18 cubic feet.

The collection provides substantial documentation of Dr. Wortis's academic associations and activities; his writing and research; his theoretical contributions to the field of psychiatry; his relationships with notable scholars who influenced him; and his personal friendships, marriage, and hobbies and interests. To a lesser degree, records in the collection reflect his role as a teacher, lecturer, and practicing psychiatrist. There are few documents pertaining to his affiliations with the Communist party.¹⁹

The collection consists of taped interviews, manuscripts for books and articles, personal and professional correspondence, diaries, notebooks, photographs, newspaper clippings, transcripts and cassette tapes of interviews, and slides from lectures.

Materials of particular interest include:

- o published scientific writings and notes covering his career (Series 3: Writings)
- o letters describing his courtship and marriage to Helen Zunser and his relationship with Gerda Vorster (in German) (Series 1: Correspondence)
- o research notes and materials leading to the publication of Fragments of an Analysis with Freud, Soviet Psychiatry and Tricky Dick and His Pals (a childrens' book) (Series 3: Writings; Series 6: Other Biographical Materials - Reviews; Series 1: Correspondence)
- o correspondence between Wortis and Havelock Ellis and between Wortis and Adolf Meyer (Series 1: Correspondence)
- o correspondence and reports made by Wortis to Mrs. A. Kingsley Porter (fellowship provider, 1933-1940) (Series 1: Correspondence)
- o editorials written for the Journal of Biological Psychiatry (Series 7: Professional Interests and Affiliations)
- o writings composed while a student at New York University (1923-1927) (Series 3: Writings)

¹⁹ See Series 1: Correspondence - Topical - "Subversive Activities."

- drawings, sketches, essays, interviews and travel notes
(Series 6: Other Biographical Materials)
- research notes and materials about Dr. Heinrich Hoffmann
(Series 7: Professional Interests and Affiliations)
- treatment records from Brooklyn Jewish Hospital (late 1950s)
(Series 2: Study, Treatment and Research Materials)

IV. Organization and Access

The collection has been arranged in eight series which have been further organized into subseries. Within series, the files are arranged alphabetically, chronologically, or by type of document. Whenever possible the file organization created by Dr. Wortis was preserved. This is true for Series 1: Subseries 4 (Administrative Correspondence) and Series 7: Subseries 3 (Editorship, Society of Biological Psychiatry).

The arrangement is summarized below:

Series 1: Correspondence

- Subseries 1: To Helen Zunser (Wortis)
- 2: Helen Zunser (Wortis) and Joseph Wortis
- 3: Individual
- 4: Topical
- 5: Administrative

Series 2: Study, Treatment and Research Materials

Series 3: Writings

- Subseries 1: Professional
- 2: Personal

Series 4: Teaching Materials and Lectures

Series 5: Artifacts and Memorabilia

Series 6: Other Biographical Materials

Series 7: Professional Interests and Affiliations

- Subseries 1: Professional Societies, Hospitals, Interests
- 2: Conferences
- 3: Editorship, Society of Biological Psychiatry (administrative records)
- 4: Research Materials on Dr. Heinrich Hoffmann

Series 8: Audio-Visual Materials

The majority of records in this collection have been housed in document sized boxes in acid-free folders.

Series descriptions (in Section V of this document) provide detailed information about the content, time frame, organization and size of each series.

A box and folder listing (in Section VI) provides folder titles and locations for items throughout the collection.

An index to correspondents who are significantly represented in the collection is provided in Section VII.

The collection is open for research upon application to the Curator of the Library.

V. Series Descriptions

Series 1: Correspondence²⁰

Subseries 1: To Helen Zunser Wortis
Dates: 1921-1950
Boxes: 3

Folders are arranged chronologically. Mostly personal correspondence with family and friends.

Subseries 2: Helen Zunser Wortis and Joseph Wortis
Dates: 1923-1972
Boxes: 2

Arranged chronologically. Personal correspondence.

Subseries 3: Individual
Dates: 1923-1994
Boxes: 6

Arranged alphabetically. Includes personal and professional correspondence.

Subseries 4: Topical
Dates: 1933-1994
Boxes: 2

Arranged alphabetically. Each file contains correspondence related to a particular event or topic, organized as such by Wortis. For instance a "Havelock Ellis' 80th Birthday Party" file contains correspondence relating to the planning of that event. Other such topics include "Homosexuality" and "Bellevue Hospital."

Subseries 5: Administrative
Dates: 1955-1994
Boxes: 2

Arranged alphabetically. These files have been maintained in the order they were received. This subseries consists of professional/business letters including requests for reprints of Wortis' articles, thank you letters, recommendations, invitation letters, confirmation letters, and inquiries.

²⁰ See Section VII in this document for an alphabetical listing of correspondents.

Series 2: Study, Treatment and Research Materials

Dates: 1931-1974
Boxes: 6

*- Folders marked with a *
are restricted by HIPAA*

Folders in this series are arranged by type or topic of document in loose chronological order.

The first 3 1/4 boxes contain patient information regarding individuals undergoing insulin shock therapy, Metrazol treatment, electroshock therapy, etc., including case records for Wortis' work on homosexuality, schizophrenia, and the psychological conditions of seamen at the Ellis Island Marine Hospital (1943-1945). Included with these records are notebooks, charts and other data.

The next 2 3/4 boxes contain miscellaneous notebooks and research notebooks from Vienna (1928-1934) covering such medical topics as cardiac psychosis. There are also notes and data on alcoholism and brain metabolism research. When possible, materials covering common areas of study were placed together. (See Oversize Box for graphs showing metabolic brain research on rats).

Series 3: Writings

Subseries 1: Professional
Dates: 1930's-1995
Boxes: 10

This subseries contains several Wortis bibliographies and his manuscripts, notes, printed/published works, and miscellaneous.

Manuscripts are organized alphabetically. When there is a series of manuscripts about a specific individual, the folders are placed together under the last name of the individual. For instance, all papers with Havelock Ellis in their titles are placed under "Ellis." Housed with the manuscripts are often corresponding notes, letters,²¹ or other materials. If it is evident that a folder of notes (not in manuscript form) relates specifically to a manuscript (completed or in progress), the notes are housed with the manuscript.

The next two boxes contain notes arranged by topic and notes difficult to identify. These files include Wortis' notes describing his meetings with Havelock Ellis and Sigmund Freud, notes on mental retardation, and typed notes from his trip to Russia, 1959-1960.

Printed writings, those which have been professionally printed or published, are located in the next three boxes. These ²¹ When there is a lot of related correspondence, the letters are removed into Series 1 and cross-referenced.

Series 3: Writings (cont'd.)

works are arranged chronologically and also include editorials written for the Journal of Biological Psychiatry. Printed writings are followed by miscellaneous writings organized by document type, and consist of Wortis' letters to the editor, a folder of book reviews by Wortis, his translations of Dr. Manfred Sakel's monograph on insulin treatment, and various professional writings by Henry Wortis and Helen Zunser Wortis.

Subseries 2: Personal
Dates: 1920-1994
Boxes: 4

Arranged by type of material and includes travel notes, writings, sketches, etc. Also included is an early incomplete draft of Wortis' unfinished autobiography Confessions of a Psychiatrist (1986) and letters he had transcribed (between Helen Zunser and himself, 1925-1928) with added notes by himself, personal diaries from 1927-1934, and college essays and papers from his undergraduate career at New York University (1923-1927).

Series 4: Teaching Materials and Lectures

Dates: 1942-1975
Boxes: 1

Arranged chronologically. This series includes miscellaneous class materials, student papers/essays and lecture notes from his teachings at the School for Democracy (13 Astor Pl. NYC, 1942-1943). Also included are notes from lectures to hospital staff, miscellaneous writings which Wortis titled "Lectures," course descriptions from classes he taught at SUNY Stonybrook (1975), and syllabi from courses he taught for SUNY's Outreach Education Program.

Series 5: Artifacts and Memorabilia

Boxes: 2

Arrangement is generally alphabetical by type of document. This series includes biographical and related materials on individuals such as A. Kingsley Porter, Havelock Ellis, Ezra Pound and the Wortis and Zunser families, followed by news clippings pertaining to individuals (e.g. David Arkin, Henry Cowell, Ezra Pound, etc.) or subjects (e.g. mental retardation, insulin treatment, etc.)

Files containing certificates, awards, identification cards, passports, plaques, and meeting/concert programs, etc. are organized chronologically, followed by miscellaneous postcards and photographs.

Shock therapy paraphernalia and two journals kept by Henry Sigerist, have been placed in boxes for oversize materials.

Series 6: Other Biographical Materials

Dates: 1939-1994
Boxes: 2

Arranged primarily by document type. This series includes transcripts of interviews with Wortis, biographical sketches, personal financial and legal documents, personal health information, drawings by, and photographs of Wortis.²² In addition there are reviews of Wortis' books, and his testimony at the Federal Government hearings titled "Subversive Influence in the Educational Process" (1953).

Series 7: Professional Interests and Affiliations

Subseries 1: Professional Societies, Hospitals, Interests
Dates: 1950-1989
Boxes: 1 1/4

Arrangement is loosely chronological. This subseries includes information documenting Wortis' involvement with the Pavlovian Society and administrative materials from his affiliations with various hospitals. A few folders document his professional interests in topics such as mental health and "Soviet Dissidents."

Subseries 2: Conferences
Boxes: 1 1/4

Arranged chronologically. These folders include materials from international conferences, meetings, symposiums, etc. They may contain event programs or other miscellaneous materials, or correspondence. This subseries also contains itineraries and correspondence regarding trips Wortis took to Ireland (1992), France (1991), Moscow (1984), etc. possibly for business related ²² When possible, the transcripts are cross-referenced with the corresponding cassette tape in series 8.

Series 7: Professional Interests and Affiliations (cont'd.)

events and purposes.²³

Subseries 3: Editorship, Society of Biological Psychiatry
Dates: 1950-1994
Boxes: 1

Wortis' original organization has been preserved. This subseries contains Wortis' administrative records reflecting his involvement with the Society and his role as editor of the Journal of Biological Psychiatry. The files include general correspondence, history, job applications, etc.²⁴

Subseries 4: Research Materials on Dr. Heinrich
Hoffmann
Dates: N/A
Boxes: 1

Eight folders containing personal and professional information about Dr. Heinrich Hoffmann²⁵ compiled by Wortis possibly for research for his children's book Tricky Dick.

Series 8: Audio-Visual Materials

Dates: 1942-1994
Boxes: 5 (+ four reel to reel cases)

This series is arranged by type of material and consists of professional photographs of mentally disabled children in workshop/hospital settings possibly taken during the 1950's, various 35 mm slides including one set from a lecture given in 1978, various plastic and glass lantern slides, reel-to-reel tapes from the late 1960's (housed flat in the Oversize Box), cassette tapes of interviews and other recordings (1977-1994),

²³ Any written speeches by Wortis from a conference are located in Series 3: Writings, Subseries 1 and cross-referenced on the folder.

²⁴ For Wortis' written editorials, see Series 3, Subseries 1.

²⁵ Dr. Heinrich Hoffman wrote and illustrated the book, Struwelpeter or Slovenly Peter, in Germany in 1858. It became a popular children's book and Wortis used it as a model for his own children's book, Tricky Dick.

Series 8: Audio-Visual Materials (cont'd.)

and discs (c.1942-1955) created for use on a "Soundscriber" player machine,²⁶ containing recorded lectures and talks given by Wortis at the Jefferson School, radio broadcasts, etc.

²⁶As of October 1996, the soundscriber machine functions but requires a new needle.
